PR Point

We are proceeding with the processes of 'city planning,' whereby the disaster prevention ability of infrastructure and energy supplies are improved, and 'personnel development,' whereby our diverse range of citizens locally support disaster risk reduction. These are implemented in order to create a city which preserves high standards of safety and security in its citizens' lives and economic activity, utilising the rich environment of the City of Trees, Sendai and the experiences and lessons of the Great East Japan Earthquake. We will also pass on our experiences and lessons both domestically and internationally, and contribute to disaster prevention culture.
